Message from EBLIDA President Gerald Leitner

I have great pleasure in welcoming you to the 19th EBLIDA Annual Conference: One Profession, One Future? in Málaga (Spain) on the 27th May 2011 with social events following in Granada on Saturday 28th May.

This year, the meeting is hosted by the Spanish Federation of Archives, Libraries, Documentation and Museums Associations (FESABID). We are very pleased to hold this major conference in cooperation with our NAPLE colleagues.

We have arranged a great programme for you. Particular focus is being put on the challenges libraries throughout Europe will have to face over the coming years. For public libraries, the main challenge will be the establishment of new and attractive e-book services, while national libraries will concentrate on large-scale digitization and university libraries will have to focus on the question of open access.

Internationally renowned experts will be speaking on these issues. We will first hear some best practice examples from different European countries and then together with you we will work out our demands for solutions from the European Commission to make our daily library work easier.

As I already wrote last year in my invitation letter “if we do not adapt, others will come to take over our role”. So let's face the challenges and together in Málaga let's get actively involved in the discussions!

Gerald Leitner,

EBLIDA President 2009-2012
